RHEUMATISM,
BY THE

DIAMOND
RHEUMATIC CURE.

This statement is substantially a FACT, based upon evidence in the possession of the Agents in the shape of numerous testimonials from persons in all the walks of life, and particularly from some of our most respectable and trustworthy families.

Diamond Rheumatic Cure.

In its history, this invaluable medicine occupies the most honorable position possible for any remedy to attain. A few years since it was known only to the friends and neighbors and patients of the proprietor, and always sought for by them whenever troubled with Rheumatism, and in this way it came to the notice of physicians generally, and through their valuable expression, and its acknowledged value as a Rheumatic Remedy, the demand for it became so frequent and urgent as to oblige its proprietor to increase his facilities for its manufacture. Its reputation rapidly extended, and soon orders, letters of inquiry, letters of thanks, and certificates of praise were duly received from all sections of the United States and Canada, and in this way, on a basis of its merits alone—unaided by "tricks of trade" or special efforts—it has risen to its present enviable position. Wherever introduced it has received the most flattering preference in the treatment of all rheumatic complaints. In this we are truly grateful and happy, not alone because our medicine finds ready sale, and is consequently profitable to us—we say this, but because we open a new field in medical science, and cure at once what the best medical practitioners have for ages found so difficult even to relieve. We fill a place heretofore unoccupied. We relieve the suffering and minister to God's poor, we restore the laboring man to the use of his injured limbs, and save him scores of times its cost in doctor's bills, we carry content and gladness into the home of the afflicted, and consequently are remembered by millions of grateful souls.

This medicine is for sale at all Druggists throughout the United States and Canada. If it happens that your Druggist has not got it in stock, ask him to send to the Wholesale Agents.

Health Notice.

TO THE CITIZENS OF BANGOR.

The State has provided that certain measures shall be pursued in order to insure the health of the inhabitants. Among these measures are the removal of filth, unclean and noxious substances, and all things injurious to health, from the premises of citizens. Permit me to suggest to you, 1st—To examine your cellars particularly, their condition in regard to ventilation, dampness, decaying vegetables, and all filthy substances.

2d—See if there is any offensive smell from your sinks, or if your drains are clogged or uncovered.

3d—Examine your privies and vaults. If they are full, running over, or filthy, or smell badly, have them emptied.

4th—See if there are decaying substances or filth of any kind about your premises.

5th—See if there is any public nuisance in your neighborhood, such as open sewers, drains, cesspools, stagnant water, offensive stables, hog pens, &c.

6th—See if any drain, cesspool, privy, stable, or hogpen, is so near to your well as to soak or drain into it. By observing and carrying out the above suggestions you will confer a favor on the public, and a blessing on yourself.

HENRY GALE,
Health Officer.

The Pace that Kills.

"It's the pace that kills." People who live fast get old rapidly. Nothing wears out the constitution like dissipation and late hours. Hygeia, goddess of health, bitterly revenges herself upon all who break her laws; not alone those who do so wantonly, but even those who are compelled by hard necessity to overwork. Although the physical structure with no less certainty, if less rapidly, than dissipated habits. There is, however, an antiseptic which, so far as it is in the power of medicine to retard the wear and tear of the system, has to a great extent, achieved that object most successfully. This preservative is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a vitalizing agent without a peer. Premature decay, whether it be the result of inherent weakness, hard work, continuous anxiety, dissipation or disease, is stayed in its withering career, and the exhausted and shattered system powerfully reinforced by this genial restorative.

IN A TIGHT PLACE.

It is not exactly any of our business, but it does seem to us that the editor of the Portland Advertiser has got himself in rather a tight place. It happens thus: A week or more since a letter purporting to come from Augusta, signed by C. M., was published in the Advertiser, accusing Mr. Blaine of being in the Council Chamber when Judge Libbey was confirmed, and of thus unduly influencing that confirmation. The letter was spiteful in tone and was evidently written in the interest of Mr. Strout, the Democratic aspirant who didn't get the Judgeship. At once a volume of testimony was forthcoming, including that of three Councillors, denying that Mr. Blaine was in or near the Council Chamber when the vote referred to was taken.

Here the matter ordinarily would have ended. But some one in Portland over the signature of "Bramhall" writes the Kennebec Journal that Mr. Richardson never received any communication from Augusta, but that he manufactured the whole thing in the editorial rooms of the Advertiser. In answer to this charge Mr. Richardson writes to the Journal affirming that he did receive the communication from a responsible gentleman, but that he re-wrote it himself and it went to the compositor in his handwriting, and he accuses some spy in his office of divulging this important fact. We think Mr. Richardson must be aware that he makes a very awkward acknowledgment, and that he can only relieve himself from embarrassment by furnishing the name of a responsible author of the C. M. letter.

Bramhall meanwhile seeing his advantage presses Mr. Richardson [illegible] other letter published in the Kennebec Journal, [illegible] him of trying to look up [illegible] the letter [illegible] "Bramhall" then proceeds [illegible] some other facts which imply an intimacy with the inner workings of the Advertiser. He says that some time ago Mr. [illegible] that Mr. Blaine's name should never again appear in his paper [illegible] were instructed to quote [illegible] with Mr. Blaine's name in it, and [illegible] was mentioned in the [illegible] despatches it should be [illegible]. In pursuance of this policy Bramhall alleges that the closing proceedings of Congress so far as the House [illegible] did not appear in the Advertiser [illegible] of Mr. Blaine's [illegible] prominence in those [illegible]. And then with a sharp pen [illegible].

We [illegible] Mr. Richardson is disappointed in [illegible] that this course was expected [illegible] that somehow [illegible] something about Mr. Blaine [illegible] the Advertiser. Mr. Richardson indeed found that he has only been playing the part of the little dog barking at the moon, and that the moon has kept right on. And now, judging from his communication to our paper, the [illegible] dog has changed his bark into a whine.

In all this the charge against Mr. Blaine is of course lost sight of—dismissed by common consent as utterly untrue from the beginning. And it is worth while noting in this connection that assailants of Mr. Blaine are singularly apt to come to grief. The case of poor George Gifford last fall was a case in point, and we greatly fear that the editor of the Advertiser has permitted his zeal in the assault of an individual to outrun his discretion in taking care of the honor of his paper.

OUR COMPLIMENTS TO A COURTEOUS CONTEMPORARY.

On Tuesday evening of last week the senior editor of this paper left this city on a visit to New York and vicinity, from which he returned yesterday morning, to find that during his absence the gentlemanly conductor of the Bangor Commercial had availed of the apparently safe opportunity to indulge in impertinence towards a person then in a locality where that paper is not seen or known. Having returned we present our acknowledgements of the following characteristic samples of our contemporary's manliness and good breeding.

OUR UNSOPHISTICATED NEIGHBOR.—In the Associated Press report of the Beecher trial to-day occurs the following passage:—"Chief Justice Neilson announced that he would be happy to see at recess the newspaper editors from Toronto and Bangor who had come to court on Saturday." Those unsophisticated beings no doubt were unaware that the scandal trial is always adjourned from Friday to Monday. There are over eighty autographs of newspaper editors, stenographers, &c., in Judge Neilson's album, and his honor requested that any newspaper men who had not signed would enter their signatures to-day." Won't the presumptuous young man who speaks with such levity of the "unsophisticated Bangor editor" there present catch it when the great Captain returns from New York! We wouldn't like to be him.—Commercial, May 22.

We thought it would be so. The eggs wouldn't dare. The audacious reference to the distinguished editor across the bridge as an "unsophisticated being," which we spoke of last night, is conspicuous by its absence in the press report of the Brooklyn trial published in the Whig this morning. Since the publication in that paper of that celebrated acrostic some time ago, its conductor has come to be as careful in excluding from its columns any personal, as he has always been in keeping out of it any political truths.—Commercial May 24.

On Monday evening last the Commercial could find space for no other words of the report of the Brooklyn trial, but its dignified conductor took especial pains to make an editorial paragraph of a gratuitous and silly reference to the editor of this paper made by a Brooklyn reporter who has doubtless ere now repented of his impertinence. The editor of the paper was not only in Court on Friday when the adjournment to Monday was announced, but on Monday also he was indebted to Chief Justice Neilson for very generous courtesies, modestly occupying a seat upon the bench throughout the afternoon session in compliance with the unexpected and certainly unsought-for invitation of the presiding Judge. Precisely why the reporter employed to send messages from the Court room directly to the New England press, should have felt constrained to grossly misrepresent the Judge's courtesy, we do not know, but it is less difficult to understand the unblushing eagerness of our contemporary to adopt and indorse the gross impertinence. The assistant left in charge of this paper acted with entire propriety in eliminating a personal slur which the reporter had no right to telegraph, and it is hardly the province of a paper which suppressed all the rest of the report to question that proper exercise of editorial supervision. We were only advised after leaving New York on our return that such a despatch had been sent, and its emphatic characterization by the Agent of the New England Press, in a telegraphic card published on our third page, affords evidence, if any were wanted, that such an impertinence would never have been permitted with the knowledge or consent of Mr. Learned, the employer of the scribe who has so lively an imagination. The appending of the Agent's signature to the correction rendered its suppression by the Commercial a very risky matter, and that sheet was compelled to swallow the bitter dose of its publication last evening. The "unsophisticated" editor presents his compliments to his polite contemporary and hopes that the latter feels better since hearing from Associated Press headquarters. We expect to be out of town for a few hours during Memorial Day, when the editor of the Commercial will have a fine chance to come over and make faces at our errand boy.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

The Concord Monitor, the leading Republican paper of New Hampshire, calls for the impeachment of Governor Weston in an editorial Friday evening as follows:

"Governor Weston having committed an act of gross usurpation must not be permitted to escape the penalty for his crime. He must be impeached. It is a mistake to suppose this cannot be done after his term of office expires. The House can present articles of impeachment for mal-administration while in office, the Senate can try and a majority of that body will convict him and the penalty of disqualification to hold or to enjoy any place of honor, trust or profit under this State can be enforced. Weston's mal-administration is a thousand times more flagrant than that charged against Andrew Johnson, and the safety and perpetuity of free government demand that he be impeached and that the full penalty of the law for his flagrant crime be enforced."

A despatch states that the article created considerable of a sensation in Concord and may possibly foreshadow a course to be pursued by the party.

POLITICAL AND PERSONAL.

An enthusiastic rural paper in Indiana says Mr. Colfax could be elected Governor of that State, if he would consent to run, by 20,000 majority.

"It will come," said a candidate for Mayor of St. Louis the other day, while making a stump speech, "just as sure as it was that Romeo founded Rome."

Jeff. Davis was greeted at Dallas, Texas, with the regular rebel yell. He spoke of the reception as "such a welcome as no Roman dictator, consul or proconsul ever received, a welcome that came in defiance of friends and of authority."

It took the Missouri Constitutional Convention three days of last week to discuss and adopt the first section of their preamble, which reads as follows: "Section 1. That all political power is vested in and derived from the people; that all government of right originates from the people, is founded upon their will only, and is instituted solely for the good of the whole."

The Providence Press, independent, says: "We are under great obligations to the Governor and Council of New Hampshire. In rejecting the votes for Nat Head, whose christian name is Nathaniel, and in refusing to reject the votes for Frank Jones, whose christian name is Franklin, they have well illustrated the sincerity of their clamor about the dishonesty of the Republican party, and have exhibited the kind of reform that they propose to introduce."

The Washington National Republican, which has been characterized as a third term organ, says of the third term resolution in the Pennsylvania platform: "They neglected to declare that the agitation of this question originated with the President's political enemies and the enemies of the Republican party. The President will probably congratulate himself that its discussion has given his party friends in one of the foremost States in the Union an opportunity to defend him against the malicious charges of the opposition."

DECORATION DAY. In answer to a telegram from the Postmaster of Cincinnati, the Postmaster-General has sent the following despatch which will apply in other cases:

"Decoration Day is not a legal holiday so far as this department is aware. If it is in Ohio, conduct the office as on other holidays."

EXCURSION

To Portland and Return

FOR ONE FARE.

THE ONLY EXHIBITION GIVEN EAST OF PORTLAND.

Steamer CITY OF RICHMOND, (Capt. C. KILBY,) will take parties wishing to witness Barnum's Great Exhibition, at Portland, MONDAY, May 31st, for one fare to Portland and return same evening.

The steamer will not leave Portland until the close of the Exhibition, thus giving a fine opportunity for a grand excursion from Bangor and the landings on the Penobscot, at a great saving of time and expense.

As this Hippodrome (the greatest in the world) will not exhibit east of Portland, the general manager of the line has made this liberal arrangement for the benefit of the people along the shore.

AN IMPERTINENCE REBUKED.

A Card from the New York Agent of the New England Press.

NEW YORK, May 28. The statement made by a Brooklyn reporter last Monday, in the opening paragraphs of the Beecher trial, that the newspaper editors from Portland and Bangor would have an audience with Judge Neilson that day as they had [illegible] the previous Saturday, was a misstatement of the fact, and the characterization of these gentlemen as "unsophisticated" was most unwarrantable, the reporter thereby exceeding not only his instructions by the Agent of the New England Press, but grossly violating good [illegible] courtesies and the amenities due to members of the Editorial profession. Mr. Boutelle, Editor of THE BANGOR WHIG, who is referred to above, was not [illegible] on Saturday, but was the recipient [illegible] Monday of the kindliest courtesy from [illegible] Neilson.

Signed, AMOS P. LEAVENS.

HARROWING DETAILS OF THE CALAMITY

Fifty More Bodies Identified.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., May 28. The bodies of the persons burned to death in the [illegible] at Holyoke last night have been [illegible] in addition to those of fifteen or [illegible] who were [illegible] to their [illegible] friends. Nearly seventy [illegible] forty more [illegible].

The Hero of the Disaster

[illegible] fireman who [illegible] the alarm. He [illegible] reached the [illegible] through [illegible] in the doorway [illegible] terrible pressure of [illegible] With [illegible] to consider them [illegible] Engineer Mullin [illegible] into the flames, spurred on by the [illegible] pulling out the bodies [illegible] from the Mount Holyoke hose [illegible].

Horrifying Scenes.

[illegible] first persons drawn out were burned [illegible] as they passed directly through the [illegible] water and the flames were extinguished. Some of the poor creatures [illegible] with the aid of wooden steps [illegible] the streets and a few were [illegible] able to walk away. [illegible] The Holyoke Fire Department [illegible] worked with such energy [illegible] the fire was extinguished [illegible] were pulled down [illegible] the bodies might be made [illegible].

The Swift Work of Death.

Only a few moments elapsed after the [illegible] struck the building before the fire [illegible] during [illegible] brief period of time was terrible. Some jumping from the gallery windows were severely injured. One person [illegible] completely wrapped [illegible] and after tottering there an instant fell to the ground dead and unrecognizable. Hundreds of men went to work as soon as an opportunity offered to search [illegible] bodies, and a force of special police [illegible] organized to keep back the crowd which gathered.

The Work of Extricating the Bodies

[illegible] the greater number of them were found in the fatal entryway burned, some of them to a crisp. The body of one woman was found sitting in the seat she had occupied, her clothing entirely burned off. A fleshy woman weighing some 180 pounds was dragged screaming from the ruins and was carried a short distance from the burning building and placed on the grass while the flesh actually peeled off of her back. In a moment she fell over dead. The scene last night and to-day in the [illegible] basement where the bodies of the dead were carried was heartrending in the extreme. A coroner's jury was summoned but the excitement continues so intense that it was judged best not to attempt the taking of evidence and the inquest was adjourned till Monday.

Driven to Insanity.

Lewis Desjardin, 34 years old, whose wife and daughter were burned to death, became insane to-day from grief and cried continually in agonizing tones "Oh my Julie! my Julie!" Some were taken out alive who were under others who were dead, and owed to this fact their own salvation. At the time many women lost their lives by being trampled under foot.

THE FINANCES.

Retiring Currency.

WASHINGTON, May 28. The Secretary of the Treasury to-day directed the retirement of $987,760 from the currency balance of the Treasury, the same being 80 per cent of the additional circulation issued to the banks during the present month. Until further direction, the amount of United States notes outstanding to be used as a circulating medium shall not exceed $377,064,035.

MISSOURI.

Heavy Rains—Grasshoppers Drowned out by Millions.

KANSAS CITY, May 28. Rain has poured down in torrents almost incessantly the past 34 hours. Reports brought in by trains show the rain to have been general in every direction for upwards of a hundred miles. Considerable damage was done to ferries, railroad embankments and to growing crops, but the greatest injury has been done to the grasshoppers. Untold millions have been destroyed by the flood. They were washed into the gutters and sewers of the city and the streams are full of them. Missouri River has been black with them. The levee was visited by hundreds of people to witness the gratifying sight.

The Bulk of the Insects Destroyed.

There is no question but that the bulk of the insects in this vicinity have been destroyed by the flood. The feeling of dread is giving away to one of rejoicing and Gov. Hardin will doubtless be called upon to issue a proclamation of thanksgiving instead of a day of fasting and prayer.

THE BROOKLYN TRIAL.

A GREAT THRONG IN COURT.

MR. EVARTS' GREAT ARGUMENT

Continuation of the Summing Up for the Defence.

BROOKLYN, May 28. The largest audience yet assembled at the scandal trial was packed into Court to-day. There were over fifty ladies present who were provided with chairs, others arrived late, and no one choosing to vacate in their favor they were obliged reluctantly to leave the Court. The atmosphere was very close and oppressive, although all the windows were kept open. The curtain rose on the expectant throng at 11 o'clock sharp. One of the twelve good men and true was absent and an awkward pause ensued. Nothing could be done without him. Ten minutes after 11 he turned up, to the great disappointment of the reporters. Chief Justice Neilson warned the audience to observe the greatest silence and decorum and remarked that there were too many people present, many more than would probably be in Court the next day.

Mr. Evarts then resumed his summing up for the defence. At the outset he reminded the jury that he had proved that there was nothing in the case to show the growth of misconduct, no circumstances leading to it, not even any proof of such affection or that the parties sought each other's society. The relations of Mr. Beecher to Mrs. Tilton were those of a pastor to his parishioner. On the general question of the amount of their association he would call attention to the fact that it came almost entirely from the defendant, his visits being about one in six weeks during the period of their most warm regard, and all made in the forenoon,—not a single witness, not even Tilton, proves any visit in the evening except on social occasions when there was a crowd out. On Mrs. Tilton's part there is no instance of any visit at all. If Beecher spoke falsely he could be contradicted. He told the jury he only strolled around there for a walk, and called for from five minutes to half an hour. The plaintiff and his household could not have all been unobservant if Mr. Beecher's visits were of a different character, and his testimony remains absolutely uncontradicted.

Absence of Seductive Arts.

Now what are the seductive arts this visitor used? There was found a collection of sermons from Plympton's lectures on the Divinity of Christ and the religious novel of Norwood and he gives his name is on the title-page. There is no privacy in this transaction. Then there were some flowers sent to the chamber of a woman in confinement, flowers the sight of which gladdened the eyes of everybody in the house and whose presence was betrayed by their perfume. Now, when a man has a flower garden and a farm, (and Beecher was in the habit of distributing them among his parishioners in social life) a gift of flowers once or twice or three times will not be regarded as much evidence of adultery.

The Want of Facts.

Counsel next next called attention to the want of facts on which to base proof. There were watchful hostile and indignant observers to watch the persons during these years. The jury would remember the evidence of Judson, that at lunch at Delmonico's Tilton introduced gossip about the suspicions of several persons and Judson says to him: It is certain that Beecher at least has not been suspected of irregularities toward women and Tilton says "I have lost my faith in man," which was his form of making an imputation on the pastor and friend to whom he had been in the habit of saying "There is a little woman in my house loves you dearly." Judson asked him what he meant, and he repeated "I have lost faith in man." Judson did not like these cowardly thrusts of malice, and he brings mischief to light at once. A wise man says: "Suspicious arts doubly nourished have stings." The plaintiff had read Lord Bacon and knew that these suspicions have stings and that where there are no tale-bearers there is no strife. But Judson goes at once to Beecher and tells him what Tilton said, and Beecher went to Tilton and called him to account, and Tilton denied it. When Tilton met Judson again he said "I thought you were my friend." "Yes," he replied, "but I am also a friend of Beecher."

The Weapons of Calumny.

The vilest and basest form of enmity known is assassination by the slow form of calumny. It has every degree of cowardice, malice and wickedness. Strong, brave characters can resist, but it is for the jury and counsel to protect men like themselves. A wave that would be dashed aside from the quarter of a man-of-war would swamp a tug boat and destroy many lives. Tilton has not introduced a new character into human affairs. Men of these evil dispositions have lived long ago.

Envy frets itself because of the prosperity of others and pines at their superiority. It finds its impulses in destroying that superiority. The very essence of pure love is conferring happiness on others, and of [illegible] love self gratification regardless of the ruin of others. Envy is the great wicked master passion, as love is the great noble sacred passion of our nature. Beginning with a smile when the babe recognizes its mother, growing when youth leads the bride to the altar and through all purified and unmatched until lost in the [illegible] of a sea of love because it has reveled in the star sides in the morning glory of the lustre of the sun. The events have a stern maxim. "Envy keeps no holidays" and Tilton spent New Year's Day in preparing what he calls a New Year present for Moulton the letter with which he said he would "stab Beecher to the heart." There is no need to search the heart of a man who boasts of its malignity, or to speculate how deep the vulture will thrust its beak into the blood or how deeply the serpent will fasten its fangs.

Tilton's Hypocrisy.

Now, having cautioned Judson never to speak to him again, Tilton wrote to Beecher November 30th 1865. (Here the Counsel read a letter.) It commences:

"My dear friend"—it goes on to say how he hopes "the love between them waxes, not wanes." Beecher has been a father and friend to him; by him he was baptized and married; to him he owes reputation opportunity to labor &c., and he wishes Beecher to blot from his memory any words which Tilton might have said to cause him pain. The jury would now understand what the words referred to were. Three days before he slanderer had spoken words against Beecher and with pomp of fidelity to the truth and unwilling to say what was untrue when asked what it was, answered "I have lost faith in man." Oh serpent's heart, (exclaimed counsel) hid in a flowery vase. The evidence of the plaintiff himself by placing in juxtaposition the things said in private and the things said in public shows his true character. Truth comports with every fact, error with few. Sometimes by skillfully or fortunately getting hold of a few facts the cross-examiner is able to discover the falsity of the witness; but when the cross-examiner is perfectly instructed and undertakes from the immediate statement to show its incompatibility with an array of facts around it, then it is that he follows that rule.

Tilton's Contradictions.

When Tilton wished to convict Bessie Turner of a lie he wanted to prove the falsity of her testimony about his talking of his grey hairs by saying that he had none at that time. He had forgotten that it is written "Thou canst not make one hair white or black" and "every hair in thy head is numbered," and he had forgotten that he had written to his wife "gray hairs since our marriage have grown in my head." Bessie's story matches all around. There was another instance of it. We had Martin, who thought he could contradict Mrs. Tilton. He testified that he and she went out on the piazza for coolness at two o'clock and remained there an hour, but forgot that the sun blazes on the piazza at two o'clock. The solar system was against them. [illegible] he said that the wall of the next house shaded it. Some men dash their heads against a wall, but the trouble was with Martin that he dashed his brains out for the want of a wall. (Laughter.) Next time Martin comes on the stand he will study the solar system and masonry. (Laughter.) It is not the first time the counsel had had to observe the difficulties of [illegible], and this observation is settled in the [illegible] of law: [illegible] one statement [illegible] a man [illegible] you he lied in one circumstance and did not lie in another [illegible] the jury to ask; "Since you have confessed you have lied, how are we to trust a lying tongue?" Mr. Judd in this set of circumstances and in a motive; he doesn't lie, he says, in another. But his motive, oh, yes! he is pursuing the pastor of Plymouth church for damages.

A Web of Falsehood.

In this cause we do not need to rely on the maxim "False in one, false in all." The record of this case, in its web of falsehood and prevarication, only requires us to take the reverse of the proposition—"False in all, false in one." False in open prevarication, open falsehoods and written falsehoods. It is a terrible thing to weave a web of falsehood and spread [illegible] it greater and then have to [illegible] find one truth in it. They say, "false in all, true in one instance, for it isn't in human nature always to lie." (Laughter.)

Counsel proceeded to show that Tilton himself declares that he saw or heard nothing to excite his suspicion until his wife confessed to him, although, if his story is true, she must have been most closely watched. The Romans punished pimps and prostitutes and a husband who took back a faithless wife was classed as a pander and punished. You say you had no doubt of your wife until July, 1870. How do you know that you did not force yourself into the dilemma of accepting either the English opprobrium of "cuckold" or the dark condemnation of the Roman law. The Court here took a recess.

After recess the court room was more densely packed than before, and the rule against standing was relaxed simply because it would more interrupt the proceedings to attempt ejecting the standing spectators than to permit them to remain. Mr. Evarts proceeded to show the failure to produce any circumstantial evidence of the truth of the charge, although Tilton had called family servants as dodgers who must have seen any indications of wrong. We must judge people by ordinary rules. If Mrs. Tilton is all spirit and no body and Tilton all body, and no soul, there is no mode of judging of such abnormal characters. There had been much promise of evidence, but the result had been simply a reproduction of last summer's pamphlets. Mr. Evarts proceeded with an elaborate and forcible tracing of the evidence to show the falsehood of Tilton's charges and the inconsistency of his witnesses and his own actions.

The "dump" system by which liquor seizures are sometimes prevented, failed at McCarty's and Bragg's saloon on Central street, when the Deputy Sheriffs entered on Wednesday and Thursday. When they went into the place they came to a door which locked with a spring lock, and after the barkeeper had dumped the liquors he opened the door for the officers who proceeded to the cellar where they found the dumped fluid in sufficient quantity to convict the parties on two cases each and fines amounting to $200 were imposed. Bragg the barkeeper was arrested and taken before the court, the first arrest thus far in the raid on the rumsellers.

MEMORIAL SERVICES AT KENDUSKEAG. Daniel White Post, G. A. R., will observe Sunday as Memorial Day, and will be joined in the beautiful and appropriate services by Post Beal of this city and Safford Post of Dexter. The procession will form near the town house, as follows: Daniel White Post; Post Beal of this city; Post Safford of Dexter; Temperance organizations and citizens, at about one o'clock and will march from thence to the cemetery, where the graves will be decorated and an oration will be delivered by E. F. Brett Esq. of this city. Quite a number of gentlemen not connected with the Post are expected to go out from this city.

A BAR ROOM FIGHT. Yesterday afternoon a brutal fight occurred at a Central street saloon, run by McCarty & Bragg, between Thomas McAloon and Eugene Angell, the latter receiving severe punishment by the way of cuts and bruises about the face and head. The story is that the door of the bar room was locked and McAloon and Angell closed in for a bull-dog encounter over some real or fancied wrong, but just what it was only the interested parties know. One "Jackanee" Welch who attempted to strike Angell, as is said, was knocked down by another party during the melee. Angell says McAloon struck him with a tumbler and a bottle which lacerated his face. A warrant was procured and McAloon was taken before His Honor Judge Goddenow, but the case was continued until to-day. It was according to all appearances a brutal affair and the parties to it will doubtless get a showing up in Court this morning.

We shall "SUIT" them at GEORGE FENNO'S,

THE GREAT REPUTATION
Which VEGETINE has attained in all parts of the country as a Great and Good Medicine, and the large number of testimonials which are constantly being received from persons who have been cured by its use, is conclusive proof of its great value. Is recommended by physicians and apothecaries. As a Blood-Purifier and Health Restorer, it has no equal.
VEGETINE is not prepared for a fancy drink made from poor liquors, which debilitates the system and tends to destroy health instead of restoring it.
Are not the many testimonials given for the different complaints satisfactory to any reasonable person suffering from disease that they can be cured? Read the different testimonials given, and none can doubt. In many of these cases the persons say that their pain and suffering cannot be expressed as in cases of Scrofula, where apparently the whole body was one mass of corruption. If VEGETINE will relieve pain, cleanse, purify and cure such diseases, restoring the patient to perfect health after trying different physicians, many remedies, suffering for years, is it not conclusive proof, if you are a sufferer you can be cured? Why is this medicine performing such great cures? It works in the blood, in the circulating fluid. It can truly be called the Great Blood Purifier. The great source of disease originates in the blood, and no medicine that does not act directly upon it to purify and renovate, has any just claim upon public attention. When the blood becomes lifeless and stagnant, either from change of weather or of climate, want of exercise, irregular diet, or from any other cause, the VEGETINE will renew the blood, carry off the putrid humors, cleanse the stomach, regulate the bowels and impart a tone of vigor to the whole body. The conviction is in the public mind as well as in the medical profession, that the remedies supplied by the Vegetable Kingdom are more safe, more successful, in the cure of disease, than mineral medicines. VEGETINE is composed of roots, barks and herbs. It is pleasant to take, and is perfectly safe to give an infant. Do you need it? Do not hesitate to try it. You will never regret it.

CANNOT BE EXCELLED.
CHARLESTOWN, March 19, 1869.
H. R. STEVENS:
Dear Sir—This is to certify that I have used your "Blood Preparation" in my family for several years, and think that, for Scrofula or Cankerous Humors, or Rheumatic Affections, it cannot be excelled; and, as a blood purifier and spring medicine, it is the best thing I have ever used; and I have used almost everything. I can cheerfully recommend it to any one in need of such a medicine.
Yours respectfully,
MRS. A. A. DINSMORE,
19 Russell Street.

WHAT IS NEEDED.
BOSTON, Feb. 13, 1871.
H. R. STEVENS, Esq.:
Dear Sir—About one year since I found myself in a feeble condition from general debility. VEGETINE was strongly recommended to me by a friend who had been much benefited by its use. I procured the article, and, after using several bottles, was restored to health, and discontinued its use. I feel quite confident that there is no medicine superior to it for those complaints for which it is especially prepared, and would cheerfully recommend it to those who feel that they need something to restore them to perfect health.
Respectfully yours,
U. L. PETTENGILL,
Firm of S. M. Pettengill & Co.,
No. 10 State St., Boston.

Dear Sir—I have had Dyspepsia in its worst form for the last ten years, and have taken hundreds of dollars' worth of medicines without obtaining any relief. In September last I commenced taking the VEGETINE, since which time my health has steadily improved. My food digests well, and I have gained fifteen pounds of flesh. There are several others in this place taking VEGETINE, and all have obtained relief.

Mystery Solved!
The Great Secret of the Wonderful
SUCCESS OF VEGETINE.
It strikes at the root of disease by purifying the blood, restoring the liver and kidneys to healthy action, invigorating the nervous system.
Reliable Evidence.
MR. H. R. STEVENS:
Dear Sir—I will most cheerfully add my testimony to the great number you have already received in favor of your great and good medicine, VEGETINE, for I do not think enough can be said in its praise, for I was troubled over thirty years with that dreadful disease, Catarrh, and had such bad coughing spells that it would seem as though I could never breathe any more, and VEGETINE has cured me; and I do feel to thank God all the time that there is so good a medicine as VEGETINE, and I also think it one of the best medicines for coughs and weak sinking feelings at the stomach, and advise every body to take the VEGETINE, for I can assure them it is one of the best medicines that ever was.
MRS. L. GORE,

THOUSANDS SPEAK.
VEGETINE is acknowledged and recommended by physicians and apothecaries to be the best purifier and cleanser of the blood yet discovered, and thousands speak in its praise who have been restored to health.
Report from a Practical Chemist and Apothecary.
BOSTON, Jan. 1, 1874.
Dear Sir—This is to certify that I have sold at retail 154½ dozen (1852 bottles) of your VEGETINE since April 12, 1870, and can truly say that it has given the best satisfaction of any remedy for the complaints for which it is recommended, that I ever sold. Scarcely a day passes without some of my customers testifying to its merits on themselves or their friends. I am perfectly cognizant of several cases of Scrofulous Tumors being cured by VEGETINE alone in this vicinity.
Very respectfully yours,
AL GILMAN,
468 Broadway.
To H. R. STEVENS, Esq.

VEGETINE
Will cleanse Scrofula from the System.
HONEST OPINION
MR. H. R. STEVENS:
Dear Sir—This is to show that my son was taken sick in January, 1864, with Scrofula, which came out in large sores and ulcers on his leg and hip. His leg was swelled more than twice its natural size. He had several doctors of high standing in their profession—two from Boston and three from Charlestown—without getting a bit better. He was obliged to be where ever he was placed, for he has no use of his limbs whatever. When we had given up all hopes of his living we were told to try VEGETINE, the great blood remedy, and he had taken it but a short time before we could see a great change. The sores ran so bad that we had to change the cloths four or five times a day. Still he was getting better, for he could move his limbs and help himself a little. He was soon able to sit up in bed, and by constant use of VEGETINE it has cured him. He has a lame leg, which he will probably have for life; but we all honestly believe, if we had used VEGETINE before we had to [illegible] with these doctors it would have saved the use of his leg, and restored it to natural health. I hope all those troubled with Scrofula will read this testimony of me and my son, who is now well, and able to speak for himself.
CATHERINE MAHONEY,
DANIEL MAHONEY,
19 Trenton St., Charlestown, Mass.
May 10, 1872.
The above plain, but honest statement conclusively shows the quick and thorough cleansing effects of the VEGETINE in Scrofula.
VEGETINE is acknowledged by all classes of people to be the best and most reliable blood purifier in the world.

WHAT THE CHIMNEY SANG.

BY BRET HARTE.

Over the chimney the night-wind sang
And chanted a melody no one knew,
And the woman stopped as the babe she tossed,
And thought of the one she had long since lost,
And said, as her tear drops back she forced,
"I hate the wind in the chimney."

Over the chimney the night-wind sang
And chanted a melody no one knew,
And the children said, as they closer drew,
"'Tis some witch that is cleaving the black night through—
'Tis a fairy trumpet that just then blew,
And we fear the wind in the chimney."

Over the chimney the night-wind sang
And chanted a melody no one knew,
And the man, as he sat on his hearth below,
Said to himself, "It will surely snow,
And fuel is dear, and wages low,
And I'll stop the leak in the chimney."

Over the chimney the night-wind sang
And chanted a melody no one knew,
But the poet listened and smiled, for he
Was man, and woman and child, all three,
And he said, "It is God's own harmony,
This wind that sings in the chimney."

SOCIAL LIFE IN MEXICO.

We translate from Princess Salm-Salm's Recollections of Mexico the following interesting facts in regard to social life in that country.—Appleton's Journal.

The interior of Mexican houses is much more interesting than the exterior. A flight of stairs leads to an open gallery, which runs round an inner court, usually ornamented with flowers, and furnished with mats and seats. From this terrace all the rooms are reached. The salons in the houses of the wealthy are usually well furnished, but not often with as much taste as profusion. The Mexicans are fond of gilding and have nothing but gilt furniture. In the sleeping rooms the beds only are at all luxurious; every other article is generally very primitive and the luxury of cleanliness is not very highly prized. The bed-linen is usually of cotton, as are also the table cloths and napkins, which often contrasts strangely with the costly furniture of the living room and the table service.

Although the Mexicans are a lazy people they rise early—the gentlemen to take their morning ride, the ladies to go to early mass, which is the only occasion on which [illegible] appear in the street on foot. They take a luncheon between twelve and [illegible] o'clock. The Mexicans are a very temperate people; they drink little brandy, wine or beer, but on every table you find pulque, a light [illegible] beverage resembling cider, obtained from the American agave. As a general thing they lead very regular, exemplary lives, but gambling is their passion.

The men are usually small, delicately but symmetrically made, and have very small hands and feet. They are very polite and graceful, reserved and cautious, as though they were always on their guard against deception—and for a very good reason, since trustworthiness is far from being a leading virtue among them. They are ready to promise—with words, are always [illegible], but they are not to be trusted. Fifty years of civil strife would [illegible] to demoralize better people than the descendants of Cortez and his followers. They love money, but have little idea how it is to be honestly obtained; hence it is looked upon rather as being meritorious than sinful to steal from the government, [illegible] it may. Whoever gets into office [illegible] his position to this purpose.

In general they are very hospitable, and at dinner there are always two or three covers laid for guests who may chance to come in. Frugal as they usually [illegible], when they entertain they provide [illegible] bountifully.

The women of the better classes are very handsome, and are especially remarkable for their abundant heads of black hair, their large, dark, melancholy eyes, and their small, delicately formed extremities. They marry young, often at the age of [illegible] or fifteen, and usually have large families, and it is not unusual to see a woman with a dozen children and sometimes more. The children are very [illegible] and well behaved. I have never seen them romp and quarrel, and have always seen hearty, strong children [illegible] other countries. The mothers usually nurse the children themselves, are very fond and devoted, but bring them up very irrationally. They treat them like dolls, and their chief study is to dress them [illegible]. The children are very precocious, [illegible] their tenth or twelfth year they progress with wonderful rapidity, but then their intellectual development becomes very slow or entirely ceases.

Family life in Mexico is quite pleasant; the husband and wife are always seen together, and they live mostly at home surrounded by their relations. Parents part from their daughters very unwillingly, and not unfrequently they marry them to men who are content to make the house of their father-in-law their home and to live at his expense.

The ladies are exceedingly ignorant. They read nothing but their prayer books, and are hardly able to write the most commonplace letter. They know no language but Spanish, and of history and geography they are entirely ignorant. They know before they were invaded by the French that Paris is the capital of France, and of London they had also heard; since then both these cities they have always received their [illegible], and many objects of luxury. [illegible] they know of Rome is that the pope has his residence there, but for that circumstance they would not have known there is such a city. They, however, have a good deal of taste for music and many of them sing and play very creditably.

In many Mexican houses they have, as a rule, no regular dinner. If they are hungry they [illegible] some simple dish or drink a cup of chocolate, which is excellent; the coffee, however, is not good—they do not know how to prepare it.

At six o'clock they drive out, and from the promenade they go to the opera or theatre, taking their daughters, dressed in their finest, with them. If perchance there is no place of amusement to which they can go, then they remain at home and amuse themselves with cards and music. The young people assemble very frequently [illegible] or a tertulia, as such a gathering [illegible] called in Mexico.

Although there are in Mexico about eight million inhabitants, about half a million [illegible]—very few in the cities—the house servants are Indians, mostly young girls, who are generally treated in a very friendly and familiar manner by their employers. They are well skilled in household affairs, and many of them embroider beautifully.

More than half the population of the country are Indians; those who live on the plateau of Mexico and in the vicinity are descendants of the Aztecs, who three hundred years ago astonished the Spaniards with their civilization, which in some ways surpassed that of the ancient Egyptians. The conquerors, who expected to meet with savages only, found in the Aztecs a flourishing city containing many fine buildings, adorned with numerous works of art. What has become of this intelligent industrious people? The manner in which the English treated the American Indians bad as it was, had some excuse in the obstinacy with which they resisted every attempt to civilize them, but the Aztecs were very far from being savages."

Pierce's Rheumatic Cure.

FOR RHEUMATISM & NEURALGIA.

A TRIED AND SURE CURE

This remedy is the result of the research of one of the proprietors who had been a great sufferer for years, who had tried all the advertised remedies and the skill of many physicians without obtaining relief. A radical cure was effected, and numerous similar cures effected among his friends and acquaintances, without an exception have induced him to put it before the public. It was got up without a thought of making it an article of merchandise, but the numerous and increasing demands for it, on its merits, have become known have induced him to advertise it for the benefit of sufferers like himself.

It is an infallible remedy, if perseveringly used, for those painful maladies of Rheumatism and Neuralgia. Certificates too abundant to give, [illegible] advertising it will show. Among those testimonials are those of Mrs. Judge Appleton, R. H. Tal[illegible], J. H. [illegible], foreman of Hinckley and Egery's Foundry, C. H. Emery, and others of Bangor; W. J. Mitchell, of the Eveleth House, Moosehead Lake; Alvarado B. Orcutt, of Ed[illegible], a sufferer for fourteen years, and at times helpless, having tried the best known remedies and three skillful physicians without effect. After using seven bottles has been restored to health and gives his grateful testimonial.

It is an internal remedy, acting on the blood, freeing it from impurities and imparting tone and healthy action to the system. It may be used by children and women with the most delicate constitution with perfect safety. Full directions with each bottle.

Price per bottle $1.00. Liberal discount to the trade. For sale by Druggists generally.

LETTER CARRIERS.

All letters are delivered free by carriers when addressed to street and number. People should inform their correspondents of above and have their letters addressed accordingly.

Persons leaving their address at the General Delivery can also have their letters sent, but it is much more convenient to have the street and number on, and they will be delivered earlier than if the same is put off at the office. Carriers make two deliveries daily, the first trip supplying the extremes of their routes.

Collections are made morning and evening in season for important mails—the down town boxes fifteen and the up town boxes in fifty minutes before closing mails at the office.

Holidays and Sundays the Carrier's Window will be open for the delivery of letters from 8½ to 9½ A. M. Also open evenings from 8½ to 9 P. M.

Any irregularities in the Carriers' department should be reported to the office.

ENVELOPES.

No additional charge will be made for printing the name and request to return, across the left hand upper corner of the envelopes furnished by the Post Office Department, (samples of which may be seen at the Cashier's window,) when ordered in lots of not less than 500.

A request for the return of a letter to the writer, if unclaimed within thirty days, or less, written or printed, with the writer's name, post office and State, across the left end of the envelope on the face side, will be complied with.

The public are earnestly recommended to procure Stamped envelopes with printed return request, as the expense is less, and letters thus endorsed, if not delivered to the person addressed, are returned to the writer free of charge.

First class envelopes of above furnished for $3.50 per thousand.

Stamps cut from Stamped Envelopes cannot be used to prepay postage. The use of such Stamps is punishable by a fine of fifty dollars.

Stamped Envelopes, spoiled in directing are redeemed at this office.

DOMESTIC POSTAGE.

All Letters must be Prepaid.—Letters for the Mails in the United States, three cents per half ounce or single rate. City letters, two cents half ounce or single rate.

County papers free, except to letter carrier offices, to papers coming to this office, if published in County, are subject to postage. Daily papers published in County, if delivered by carrier, one cent each to be prepaid by stamps.

C. A. BOUTELLE, Editor.

In announcing the Forty-second Volume of this standard Newspaper, the Proprietors beg leave to state that during the past year they have incurred large expense in thoroughly refitting their establishment, and are determined to spare no effort in maintaining its high character as

The Leading Journal OF EASTERN MAINE.

We have now one of the best appointed newspaper offices in the State; have made important additions to our Editorial, Reportorial and Correspondence corps, and are in every way prepared to furnish our patrons with a

FIRST CLASS DAILY NEWSPAPER.

With facilities at our command we hope to make this favorite newspaper more interesting and acceptable during the coming year than ever before. Our connection with the ASSOCIATED PRESS, by which we receive the whole of their despatches by night and day, enables us to present in each issue

The Latest Telegraphic News from All Parts of the World.

In addition we shall be served by Special Correspondents at important points, and shall furnish

Full Reports

of the proceedings of Congress, the State Legislature, meetings of Agricultural Societies and other public bodies, carefully corrected Financial and Market Reports, a reliable Shipping List, original and selected Stories and Poetry, a large amount of instructive and entertaining Miscellany, and a very full department of

News of This Section and the State.

In politics the paper will continue to advocate and uphold the principles of the Republican party, while claiming to be independent, in the highest and best sense of the word. While fearless and outspoken in its treatment of all public questions and firmly maintaining what it believes to be right it will avoid intolerance and make its appeals to the understanding rather than to prejudice. The year about to open will be fruitful of political events of important bearing upon the future of the country, and it will be our aim to keep our readers thoroughly informed, and to favor such measures and policy as will best promote the welfare of all the people. The great interests of

AGRICULTURE AND MANUFACTURES

of Maine will receive special attention and all the influence of the paper will be exerted in stimulating the growth and prosperity of our beloved State. We rigidly exclude from our columns everything of an immoral tendency, avoid sensational matter and seek to make a thoroughly reliable paper which will find

A Welcome in Every Family Circle.

To advertisers our columns open one of the best fields in New England, our circulation being among the best classes of the people, and as

The Only Morning Daily East of the Kennebec, this paper affords the principal medium of communication with a large and constantly increasing number of readers throughout Central and Eastern Maine. On the first of January the paper will appear in

An Entirely New Dress,

but with all its best features retained and with such improvements as we trust will insure an increase of that support which it has hitherto enjoyed.
